The Knoxville Journal Wednesday, February 11, 1970

Lent To Begin Today In Knox Churches

The beginning of Lent will be observed today in many Knoxville churches by imposition of ashes, mass with communion and other types of liturgical ceremonies.

Several churches this week mark the beginning of a series of special services that will last throughout the 40-day Lenten period that ends the day before Easter.

The film "Between the Dark and the Daylight," which shows how people of the "have not" world exist and provides information on root causes of world hunger and how churches can help will be the first in a series of films to be shown at 7 p.m. every Wednesday at St. Thomas Episcopal Church.

The first in a series of films will be shown at 7:30 p.m. at St. John's Episcopal Church and at 6:30 p.m. at St. James Episcopal.

Christus Victor Lutheran is sponsoring a lenten Bible study. The first session today is on "Agony and Arrest."

John XXIII Catholic Center at the University of Tennessee will have a service of communion at 5:30 p.m. and distribution of ashes at 7:30 p.m.

A service of communion and imposition of ashes is set for noon today at St. Michael's Anglican Church.

The Rev. Harry D. Smith, pastor of First Lutheran Church and interim pastor of Grace Lutheran Church will speak on "Father Forgive Them" at 6:30 p.m. at Grace Church and 7:30 p.m. at First Church.

Holy Ghost Catholic Church will have mass, communion and imposition of ashes at 6:30 and 8:15 a.m. and 7:45 p.m.