
Ready to Play

The 18-stop instrument is shown fully installed in First Lutheran Church and ready for today's dedication recital at 4 p.m. today by Charles Ore, professor of music at Concordia Teachers College, Seward, Neb.

Organ in the Making

A craftsman in the Beckerath factory, Hamburg, Germany, is shown assembling the pipes during construction of the new organ now installed in the First Lutheran Church, Knoxville.

At First Lutheran

New Organ Dedication Set Today

Charles Ore, professor of music at Concordia Teachers College, Seward, Neb., will be guest soloist at First Lutheran Church, 1207 Broadway, today at 4 p.m. for the dedication of the church's new Beckerath Organ.

Ore Beckerath

The rite of dedication is scheduled to be held during morning worship at 10 a.m. at the church.

The 18-stop instrument, designed, built and installed by Rudolf von Beckerath, Hamburg, Germany, contains 24 ranks of pipes and is called a "tracker organ" which is noted for its mechanical action of opening the pipes, making possible the use of low velocity of wind pressure.

Here is the program for today's dedication recital:

Prelude and Fugue in F Minor, Buxtehude.

Nun lasst uns Gott dem Herren, Luebeck.

Adagio from Sonata II in D Minor (BMV527), Bach.

Prelude and Fugue in B Minor (BMV544), Bach.

Komm, Heiliger Geist, Herre Gott; O dass ich tausend; Sonne der Gerechtigkeit; Puer nobis nascitur; and Improvisation on Lasst uns erfreuen, Ore.

Prelude au Kyrie, Langlais.

Fugue in G Minor, Dupre.