Milkman Robbed

'Egg Trail' Leads Police to Suspects

Police Monday said they solved the burglary of a church and robbery of a milkman by following an "egg trail" to the suspects home.

Odell McGhee, Archer Lane, Corryton, a deliveryman for Avondale Milk Co., said when he made a delivery to First Lutheran Church, 1201 Broadway, he discovered the church kitchen had been ransacked.

Mr. McGhee said when he walked back to his truck, a gunman was waiting inside the truck and robbed him of $15.

When police arrived they tracked a trail of broken eggs to a Wells Ave. house where two suspects were arrested.

When police arrived at the house, they also found ice cream wrappers allegedly stolen from the church on the lawn.

No charges had been placed Tuesday.
